All this we find in the minutes of the meeting, which you have taken care to send us. TROUBLE OVER SATOLLI'S PROPO-SITIONS.

But these propositions of our Dele-gate having been inopportunely made public, minds were at once excited and controversies staretd afresh, which, through false interpretations and through malignant imputations, scattered abroad in the newspapers, grew more widespread and more serious.

in the newspapers, grew more widesprain and more serious.

Then certain prelates of your country, whether displeased with the interpretations put upon some of these propositions or fearing the harm to souls which it seemed to them might thence result, confided to us the reason of their anxiety. And we, knowing that the salvation of souls is the supreme law to be ever assiduously borne in mind by us, wishing, moreover, to give you another proof of our solicitous affection, requested that each of you should, in a private letter, fully open his mind to us on the subject, which was diligently complied with by each one of you.

ject, which was diligently complied with by each one of you.

From the examination of these letters it became manifest to us that some of you found in the proposition no reason for apprehension; while to others it seemed that the propositions partially abrogated the disciplinary law concerning schools enacted by the Council of Baltimore, and they feared that the diversity of interpretations but upon them would engender and discansions which would engender and discansions which would prove detrimental to the Catholic schools.

After carefully weighing the matter, we are intimately convinced that such

Now, if the words of any speaker are no to be taken that the latter part of his discourse shall be understood to agree, and not to disagree, with what he had said before, it is surely both unbecoming and unjust no to explain his takes uterances as to make them disagree with the preceding ones. And this is the more true since the minaming of the writer was not at all left obscure. For, while presenting his propositions to the distinguished meeting in New York, he expressly declared (as is evident from the minutes) his admiration for the zeal manifested by the lishops of North America in the most wise decrees enacted by the Third Plenary Council of Baitimore for the promotion of the Catholic instruction of the young. He added, marcover, that these decreas in as far as they contain a general rule of action, are faithfully to be observed, and that although the public schools are not to be entirely condemned (since causes may occur, as the Council (self had foreseen, in which it is lawful to attend them) still every endeavor should be made to multiply Catholic schools and to bring them to perfect equipment.

BALTIMORE COUNCILS SUSTAINED. BAI-TIMORE COUNCILS SUSTAINED.
But in order that, in a matter of so grave importance, there may remain no further room for doubt or for dissensions of commons as we have already declared in our letter of the 23d of May of last year to Our Vererable Brethren the 'Archbishop and Bishops of the Province of New York, so we again, as far as need be, declare that the decrees which the Baitimore Councils, agreeably to the directions of the ribol See, have enacted concerning parochial schools, and whatever else has been prescribed by the Roman Pontiffs, whether directly or through the Sacred Congregations, concerning the same matter, aready he standfastly observed. Spinal Injuries Received in a Tussis on a Barroom Floor,

James Purcell, a driver in the Streetleaning Department, was remanded in lefferson Market Court this morning, charged with homicide, in causing the death of John O'Brien, who expired in

St. Vincent's Hospital at 5.40 this morn

Purcell is thirty-five years old, and has a room at 769 Washington street, has a room at 709 Washington street, over Patrick Mulry's saloon. O'Brien was twenty-two, and lived at 332 West Twelfth street, but had not worked at anything recently.

The two men were in Mulry's saloon last night. Purcell was talking with Mulry and O'Brien, who was said to be jealous of Purcell's intimacy with Mulry, accosted Purcell and had some words with him. The two men grappled and fell to the floor, O'Brien uppermost.

pled and fell to the floor, O'Brien uppermost.

Purcell was the stronger and soon succeeded in getting on top. The bystanders then separated the men.

Purcell went u; to his room and O'Brien became unconscious.

Policeman McCabe, of the Charles street station, was called in, and as it was impossible to revive O'Brien, he called an ambulance and had him removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

There it was found that the man's spine had been injured, and his neck twisted and dislocated in the fight. He remained unconscious until he died.

Purcell claims that he is not to be blamed for O'Brien's death, as in the struggle he only used force enough to, protect himself. The witnesses will be arrested to-day.
